MICKIE SAYS

Irish Republican Army Can Mobilize Over 300,000 Men

Only Lack of Ammunition and Army Equipment Keeps This Potent Force From Fight

MEN DRILL SECRETLY AT HOME

By RUSSELL BROWNING
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

DUBLIN, Nov 18—By Mail—The volunteer "Irish Republican Army" now numbers over 300,000 officers and men, according to a statement of a Sinn Fein brigadier-general to the United Press "Lack of munition and artillery prevent this force from actively taking the field in uniformed combat with the British military in Ireland" explained the Sinn Fein leader, "but the volunteers will continue to carry out the openly adopted policy of physical resistance to the English Army of Occupation"

How is this organization maintained in a country where every city and village is heavily garrisoned by "hostile" troops, and the country roads bristle with armored cars and military motor lorries? Where do the Sinn Feiners drill? Where do they get their guns and ammunition, and how is liason effected between widely separated units?

It will betray no secrets to answer these questions in a general way, for the facts are no doubt known to the British Army Intelligence In fact Sir Hamar Greenwood announced in the House of Commons recently that the entire plans and the names of the leaders were known to the Irish Office

The Sinn Fein army is unique in that its members actually pay to belong to it instead of receiving any monetary compensation for their service. A sum of sixpence weekly is paid by each man officer and soldier alike No favoritism is shown in the selection of officers, and it is said that there is no single incident of a volunteer refusing to carry out the orders of his superior

Decentralized authority for local raids and minor offensives by company commanders under the general orders for concerted action of the brigade commander is in effect in all districts, with the exception of the larger cities, where the higher leaders direct all activities In the recent conflicts in county Kerry immediately following the death of Lord Mayor MacSwiney, a general offensive was ordered, in retaliation, a Sinn Fein leader told the United Press, for a suddenly intensified activity on the part of the police and military Eighteen soldiers and policemen were killed in the resultant fighting and about twenty-five wounded

Although medical examination is not generally required of recruits for the Sinn Fein forces, a fairly high physical standard is maintained. Volunteers who are judged to be unfit for active service are utilized in the finely developed intelligence department, or consigned to duty on the civil detective and police force, although full-fledged members are also used in this work

Each company is intrusted with the task of securing their own arms and in most cases funds with which to carry out their various missions Sinn Fein has large funds, and in the words of a prominent business man of Cork "can get more where that comes from"—namely, popular subscription to the recent "Irish Republican Loan" and funds raised by various Irish societies but a big expense is entailed in caring for the families of men in jail or who are fleeing from the British authorities

When a company of Sinn Fein volunteers is seen directing a crowd or functioning in any way an observer is struck with their discipline and familiarity with drill manual. The exact drilling places are closely guarded but it is still difficult to understand how they are able to receive training of this kind at all in a land that is said to be flooded with British "spies" Requested information on this subject of a high Sinn Fein

Light and Phone Screens

As screens for electric lamps or for telephones, beautiful ladies from France, dressed in the crinoline styles of long ago, are useful as well as highly ornamental Christmas gifts. Their draperies of silk are supported by a wire frame Imported heads of bisque are required for them.

New Christmas Pillows

Christmas time brings out a lot of handsome new pillows, because they are gifts suited to everyone. Above two are pictured, one made of changeable taffeta and one of satin ribbon. They will suit either living or bed rooms. The circular pillow of taffeta is shirred over cotton cord and the oblong pillow is edged with a frill.

2 DELEGATES ALSO U. S. A. 8's

Special Welcome Extended to Regular contestants at Convention Who Have Served at Other Wars.

Two distinguished delegates to the American Legion national convention at Cleveland received a special welcome from Franklin Dallas, the entertaining commander, when it was learned that they were also members of the Grand Army of the Republic. They were Lieut. Col. Marshall W. Wood, U. S. A., retired, of Boise, Idaho, and Dr. Wesley Thompson of Huntington Park, Cal.

Lieutenant Colonel Wood, who is seventy-four years old, was wounded twice in the Civil war, served in the Spanish-American and Indian wars and was on active duty during the World war. He served as the first commander of a Legion post at Boise.

Doctor Thompson, a spry young man of seventy-six, served for two years in the Civil war. He attempted to enlist at the start of the World war but was at first rejected. In October, 1918, he succeeded in obtaining a commission as a first lieutenant in the medical corps and served for some time in army camps in southern California.

GREETINGS FROM V. OF F. W.

Veterans of Foreign Wars Send Message to Legion During Organization's National Encampment.

Greetings to The American Legion from the Veterans of Foreign Wars were extended in the following message during the encampment of the latter organization:

"Whereas, the twenty-first national encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States is now in session at Washington, D. C., and

"Whereas, the ideals and principles of this organization are identical to those of The American Legion, and therefore,

"Be it resolved, that the national encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars extend its cordial greetings to The American Legion."

Governor Sproul Auctioning Health Bonds

Governor Sproul sold these Health Bonds under the hammer on the steps of the Capitol at Harrisburg preliminary to the opening of the Christmas Seal sale in Pennsylvania Three $5.00 Bonds brought $75.00 each and were purchased by Dr. J. S. Stackpole of Harrisburg and Governor Sproul. In the picture Governor Sproul is shown reading some of the statements on the Bond explaining Health. The Governor autographed the Bonds purchased by Mr Stackpole and Mr. Pinchot, and the Governor's Fund was autographed by the other two purchasers. Directly behind the Governor in the front row stands Dr. Thomas E. Finegan, State Superintendent of Public Instruction. Directly in front stands Mr. Pinchot, and between the two can be seen Harry S. McDevitt, secretary to the Governor, and Mr. Stackpole.

Hospital Can, Must And will Get Fund

Total Amount Subscribed to Date Is Over $162,000 and Campaign Is Extended

DRIVE WILL BEGIN IN EARNEST

It can now be definitely predicted that before the end of this month the entire $200,000 Hospital Fund will be subscribed. The total is now over ..16,000 and the drive is just starting in earnest. The major portion of this $162,000 has been practically voluntary. Very little canvassing has been done. There are at least eight hundred individuals in Clearfield town alone who have not contributed. Hundreds of these have not been approached. Others have simply put off making their subscription and need only to be reminded of the drive.

A full and complete statement of the campaign will be found on page eight of this issue. It is the most interesting statement ever prepared by the directors of the campaign. It shows that there has been a remarkable response in many localities. It shows how Clearfield stands on the drive and how the balance of the county stands.

A meeting of the directors was held about a week ago at which, after they had viewed the totals, it was decided that "they would not quit when they were so near the goal" and The Progress believes this sentiment will be manifested on the part of every citizen of this community.

Read the statement on page eight—then do as your conscience and your pride in local institutions directs.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT DEPENDED ON TO BRING IRISH TROUBLE TO CLOSE

London, Dec. 2.—A strenuous effort will be made to end fighting between Britain and Ireland before Christmas it became apparent today. At the same time it was announced in official circles that no truce would be considered until "the campaign of murder in Ireland" is terminated. As soon as practicable Lord Bentic will arise in the House of Comons to ask Premier Lloyd George whether in view of approaching Christmas he is prepared to consult Irish opinion in an effort to effect the "peace of God."

Other peace efforts will be made by the British Labor Commission which went to Ireland to investigate the police reprisals. The Commission headed by Arthur Henderson has deviated from its program and has remained in Dublin to see what it can do to bring about peace conferences. Henderson at a conference here with Catholic leaders, Irish Labor officials and others is expected to return to London to see what can be done toward bringing about joint conferences.

DUBLIN, Dec. 2—While the British office continued to round up additional Sinn Feiners here the situation was quieter than in weeks. In the neighborhood of Cork there were frequent clashes. In Cork several residences were set on fire.

DEATHS OF STATE OFFICERS MAKING MANY VACANCIES

HARRISBURG, Dec. 1—(United Press)—Death this fall of two state officials and a representative in congress has brought up the question how of filling vacancies when such emergencies arise.

According to present indications, a state-wide election will have to be held next fall. In the meantime one seat in congress wil be unfilled by a member of the Pennsylvania delegation in Washington.

The authority rests with Governor Sproul whether a special election will be called to fill state vacancies or whether temporary appointments shall be made.

The governor undoubtedly favors appointments, as special elections over the entire state are too expensive.

Congressman Mahlon M. Garland, reelected this year, died at his residence in Washington. It is unlikely that his place will be filled, as the governor has no authority to appoint representatives in congress.

With the death last week of Justice Stewart, Chambersburg, of the state supreme court, as the result of an automobile accident, a vacancy is created that must be filled by election.

The first state representative called by death was State Senator Horace L. Haldeman, Lancaster county. He was reelected this November and a special election will be held next week

GOMPERS SCORED BY GOVERNOR AT HARRISBURG MEET

HARRISBURG, Dec. 1—Threatened panics among the farmers of the great grain producing states of broader farm credits are not given and methods to meet what was described by state executives as a "drastic situation" was the chief topic discussed by twenty-three governors and seven governors-elect at their 12th annual conference which opened here today.

The governors of the great western states in telling of the financial difficulties of the farmers in their sections so impressed the other governors that the conference departed from a set and fast rule and appointed a committee to consider the sending of a petition to congress. It is suggested that the committee go to Washington and ask congress for the amendment of the federal reserve act or the adoption of any new loan measures that will extend this needed credit to farmers, finance European countries in the purchase of American farm products to remove the present over-supply and to relieve the present situation.

Governor Henry J. Allen, of Kansas, in discussing the Kansas industrial Relations court, attacked Samuel Gompers and laborers who have opposed it.

Gompers opposes the Kansas law because he knows that if the government assumes the duty of settling industrial disputes he will have no market for the tin gods he has been sell-

MAKE CHRISTMAS WORTH WHILE

Christmas is not worth the observing if it does not bring cheer and happiness. The great holiday is not worth its name if it does not serve to bring blessings to those who really need them. The expensive gift showered on the person with all that is required for their enjoyment is appreciated but merely through sentiment and an inexpensive one would do as well. To give to one who has health, a good share of this world's goods or the ability to earn is the right spirit but carries with it no good purpose. It is not what Christmas means to us, or to our fortunate friends that counts, but rather what we make it mean to one who does not have health and therefore does not have the ability to acquire for himself or herself the comforts and enjoyments of life. Were we able to lift from the houses of this country the roofs which hide the sufferings of those within some of them our Christmas enjoyment would be sadly marred. None of us want to see this side of life. It would rob us of the glamour of life if we were even permitted to look upon such scenes. But we cannot deny to ourselves that these conditions exist. This is not an appeal for the hospital drive, worthy as it is, but merely to point out a way, an inexpensive method, in which we can spread the gospel of good cheer to the real unfortunates; those who have been robbed of health, the greatest posession of man or woman. In practically very business place in Clearfield and in adjoining towns we will find those little anti-tuberculosis seals on sale. They cost only a penny each and who among us cannot afford a few pennies in this manner? Our few pennies will serve to bring back to health many a young man or young woman who is now living in despair. They will help to stamp out this disease which is so prevalent all over the country. They will help to carry the gospel of prevention to our little folks who are always in contact with it.

PATENT MEDICINE MEN ON TRIAL

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 2.—Witnesses for the government today testified against L. L. Parry, W. F. Craig and L. H. Beam, charged with using the mails to defraud in connection with the Parry patent medicine. The witnesses testified that they had not been cured by the medicine. Physicians claimed the medicine contained harmless ingredients.

STEEL MILLS CUT OUT BONUS

Youngstown, O., Dec. 2.—Two independent steel mills here have decided to cut out the premiums for production which have been paid workers for the past year. This step was announced by the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company and the Briel Hill Steel Company. It will effect about 15,000 steel mill workers. The mills will also go on a three shift basis of eight hours each. At present the laborers average ten hours a day. This is to be done in order to take care of the unemployed.

ANOTHER DEAR BROT TO CLEARFIELD

Rev. Snavely officiated yesterday at his home at the wedding of Emil Potts, of Houtzdale, to Marcella Shoe, of Ginter, Pa.

It has been found that the list published last week of the contributors to the Hospital Drive was not nearly complete. Several sheets of names were missed in that publication. The Directors of the Campaign announce that another list is being compiled of all those who were not included in the previous list and these names, together with those who have contributed since November 24th, and those who contribute within the next few days will be published in about ten days. If you have been missed your name will appear with the next publication. If you have neglected, forgotten or in any way failed to make your contribution, visit Campaign Headquarters any day up until eight o'clock in the evening and make your subscription.

HUNTING CAMPS ARE REPORTING ON THEIR LUCK

A drizzling, chilly rain, wet underbrush and ice glazed limbs of trees kept many hunters from climbing hills and plunging through the woods yesterday with the speed that would have been made with better weather conditions but everybody in the various camps had at least a half a day of the sport before rejairing to the camp to play "flinch" and match their skill at "dominoes."

It is not believed that the first day of the season was generally successful owing to the bad weather as this office had very few calls from the hunting camps telling us of the killings but many are being reported today. The weather today is no more favorable but rain or no rain the hunters will not favor waiting on the snow or old Sol any longer and will take the trail determined to bring home the bacon.

The Huckelberry Springs Camp, better known as the Read camp, reported three four point bucks hung up yesterday. Frank G. Harris and John F. Smith assisted in the killings.

The Schrot camp got a fine specimen of buck and had a battle royal with a huge wild cat. The kitty was bested in the battle and she now adorns the game rack alongside of the buck.

Stone Run lodge scored early yesterday morning with a fine buck. Blake Owens who came in reported two inches of snow in the mountains this morning. He also reported that Panther Rocks, Sparkling Springs, Punxsy, Goshen and Pitch Pine were all skunked yesterday.

Emory Gearhart brought down a handsome six point buck this morning about eleven o'clock on the Crystal Springs preserve.

The party staying at the state house have two fine bucks which they got yesterday.

Weilder is without a score yet but a buck scared the wits nearly out of a prominent confectioner yesterday "Mac" missed him.

Merrill Office takes the prize so far as we can learn. They hung up four yesterday.

Our readers will please telephone to us as they get news from the camps.

U. S., Brazil and Spain Intervene For Armenia

Austria and Costa Rica Here Recommended to Become Members Of League of Nations

GEN. WOOD TO GO TO ARMENIA

Geneva, Dec. 2.—The League of Nations today [illegible] the United States, Brazil and Spain to intervene in Armenia. The action followed the acceptance by President Wilson and governments of the other two nations of the league's invitation to mediate between Armenia and the Turkish nationalists.

An "honorary membership" for states too small to enjoy full rights in the League of Nations was proposed by the league commission for admission. The proposition probably was that special relations be established with the small states.

The commission voted unanimously to reject the application of Ukrania after recommending the admission of Austria.

The admission commision added Costa Rica to the list.

GENEVA, Dec. 1—The Armenian commission of the league of nations assembly, reported today it had reached a decision last night regarding the Armenian situation.

The commission announced that it had decided to send an "army of volunteers, headed by General Leonard Wood, U. S. A." to assist in the arbitration by the United States between the Armenians and that Mustapha Kemel.

President Wilson, by agreeing to act as mediator, in the Armenian question, has regained at one stroke his popularity in Europe which he lost since the refusal of the United States to ratify the peace treaty.

Diplomats in Geneva, admiring the success of their efforts to entangle the United States in the French-British squabble for ownership of the Near East, are gleely pointing out that now that President Wilson is again "declared in" on the European game it will be a difficult task for his successor, President elect Harding, to withdraw.

ELK MEMORIAL SERVICE SUNDAY

Memorial services will be held by Clearfield Lodge No. 540, B. P. O. E. in the Driggs theatre, Sunday afternoon at three o'clock.

P. K. Quarrie of Uniontown, Pa., will make the principal address. Rev. Johns will deliver the invocation and pronounce the benediction. John A. Stock will deliver the eulogy for the members who have died during the past year. Musical selections will be given by Miss Celeste Bonner, Margaret Shillen and Emily Edmiston.

Officers of B. P. O. E. No. 540 are Exalted Ruler, John J. Noll, Esteemed Leading Knight, William A. Mohney. Esteemed Loyal Knight, Lewis C. Mattern. Esteemed Lecturing Knight, William A. Thorn. Secretary, James F. Pletcher.

Treasurer, Fred W. Schmitt.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 2—Four masked bandits held up and robbed passenger train No. 6 on the southern railway at Oneida, Tenn., early today, according to reports received here. The men escaped. The mail and express cars were looted. The amount of the loot taken could not be learned. The postoffice at Oneida was also robbed. It is believed the same band of robbers did the work. Officers with blood hounds took up the trail of the robbers.

OLANTA PARTY

A few days ago a number of young people decided to give a surprise in honor of Miss Edna Cathcart whose birthday was being celebrated. A pleasant evening was spent in playing games and in music after which the table was spread and a wonderful lunch was served.

GOVERNOR TALKS ABOUT [illegible] OF THE [illegible]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2—The House and Senate Agricultural committees today will [illegible] farmer's problems" in view [illegible] sion this afternoon. The committees will [illegible] upon which to base their [illegible] lation for credit and [illegible] tions which are [illegible] the farmer. No [illegible] hearings will be held, they declared.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 2—The conference of governors today will give its attention to the problems confronting agriculturists throughout the country. The committee of five appointed to consider credit, marketing and other conditions affecting farmers was expected to report. After the regular order of business is concluded the conference will forward recommendations to Congress concerning plans of helping farmers in the situation that is considered "tragic" in one Governor's opinion.

HEAVY FIRE LOSS AT INDIANA

INDIANA, Pa., Dec. 2—Fire in the American Gas & Oil company's building today caused a loss of $100,000. Two men were slightly burned in fighting the flames. An explosion of a huge tank of gasoline started the blaze which spread rapidly throughout the entire establishment.

Friends today received the sad word of the death of Mrs. Lena Vila Heckle at her home in Camden, N. J., this morning following an operation. She was [illegible] and a former resident of Clearfield. She is survived by her husband and two daughters.

Mrs. C. J. Shoemaker is laid up at her home [illegible] from burns which she received while preparing dinner today.

CHURCH "MOVIES"

It is announced that five thousand churches in America have contracted to present moving pictures, and, whatever the individual churchman's attitude toward it, the fact is of importance. Some will call it progress; others will see in it a concession to degenerating inbuences. Possibly a proprotion of those who deplore it will reluctantly approve on the ground that the decrease in Sunday School attendance of four million in a single year calls for radical measures. Of course the object of church movies wil lbe to instruct as well as to thrill and entertain, but if the churches can not hold their own by preaching the truth with zeal and power, they will not accomplish it through moving pictures.

As a means of instruction in Bible story, however, the movies could be made remarbably effective, and nothing else could do as much in these times to fill the yawning gaps in the Biblical education of the younger generation. The memorable narratives of the Old Testament have all the essential requirements for picturesque and effective moving-picture drama. The New Testament tells a greater story still, but one too sacred for theatrical handling. The dramatic appeal of the Bible stories is very powerful, even when they are merely read, as has been recognized by men composing the highest levels of literary taste. It was the dramatic quality as well as the poetic form of the stories of ancient Israel that caused Byron to say that, while the New Testament was to him a task, he found the Old Testament a continuing joy. It is to be hoped that the 5,000 churches can afford to pay for the most skilled scenario writers and for screen actors of the highest ability. The great Bible stories call for and should have the best possible handling.

BOOKS FOR YOUNG READERS

The superintendent of the schools of New York city directed the teachers to observe November 30, the eighty-fifth birthday of Mark Twain, by calling the attention of the pupils, especially in the older grades, to works of the great American humorist that appeal particularly to the young, including "Tom Sawyer," "Huckleberry Finn," and The Prince and the Pauper." It is stated that a census of American schools would show but a small minority of boys and girls who have read these great stories and surprise has been expressed that they are not more widely popular among young readers. That "The Prince and the Pauper" is not widely read is surprising, but the reason for the relative unpopularity of "Tom Sawyer" and "Huck Finn" is not far to seek. What delights the adult reader in these—humor and keen observations on life—passes over the young reader's head, and there is left insufficient sensational incident to compete with the books cleverly written down to the level of average youth.

After pasing on from fairy stories the average boy craves a hero who does prodigous stunts, he wants a continuing string of thrilling incidents—with, if possible, "killing on every page," as one boy put it—and if he gets this he is happy, even if the story is "wooden" and unreadable by an adult. Those better class juveniles—with convincing local color, good character delinations, and high average literary workmanship—which are starred on library lists by discerning adults who have enjoyed reading them—are not and never will be as popular with the masses of young readers as the cheap, poorly written volumes in which a boy hero figures in a continuing series of thrilling incidents and achieves the impossible several dozen times. Only the older boy with a developed intelligence and a cultivated literary taste can hope to appreciate such a book as "Huckleberry Finn."

GOOD CONTAINERS OF HIGHEST IMPORTANCE

Those With Handles Are Not Likely to be Changed.

Bamboo Baskets Serve Purpose Quite Satisfactorily and May be Used Long Time—Ordinary Splint Vessel is Good.

One important requirement for parcel post shipping and marketing is a proper and satisfactory container, the United States Department of Agriculture points out. Sometimes the consumer can secure containers more readily and economically than the producer. Those with handles are much less likely to be damaged in transit in the mails than those which are not thus supplied and which are likely to be tossed or thrown or handled by the string or twine used in tying them. A bamboo basket serves the purpose very well and may be used a long time. Ordinary splint baskets made of strips of veneer may also be used, and if they can be secured at a price sufficiently cheap a new one for each shipment is more economical than having them returned, unless they are sent back in lots of ten or more under one cover. This, of course, necessitates using them without a wooden handle, in which case a heavy twine should be used for a handle. This twine can be untied and the baskets nested, or placed in one another, for return shipment. If a basket with a wooden handle is used, care should be taken to see that it is securely nailed, not only at the rim of the basket but further down toward the bottom, so as to prevent undue leverage which may break lose the nailing.

STORAGE OF SOY BEAN SEED

Because of Danger of Heating It Is Not Advisable to Put in Bin Until They Are Dry.

Soy bean seed is very rich in oil. It is therefore not advisable to store a lot of newly thrashed beans in a bin until they become thoroughly dry, because of the danger of heating. Because of their high oil content, they are liable to lose their ability to grow much more quickly than other common agricultural seeds. After they are thoroughly dry, they should be stored in bulk, just like oats or wheat. Until they are real dry, it is advisable to store them where they can be stirred occasionally.

The first thing they used to ask a man from the farm when he came to the city was "How are all the family?" The first thing they ask him now is "How is the apple crop?"

Consumers are astounded to learn that the cattle and sheep raisers are in urgent need of financial assistance, and wonder what became of all the money paid in recent years for meat, wool and leather.

An apiarist says the only time bees sting is when they are pressed or when they do not feel well. You may be able to recall a barefoot boy who once upon a time had the misfortune to disturb the patients in a bee hospital.

The Vanished Cistern And Your Family Washing

Grandmother had a big cistern she was proud of; most likely, too, she made her own soft soap of pure wood lye and animal fat, without borax or resin.

And Grandmother was famous for her beautiful linens--her "wash" was always a work of art.

It's true we cannot improve much on Grandmother's methods, so we're duplicating them now in our modern laundry in a scientific way.

Marie L. Obenaur, investigator for the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, says:

"The effect is to restore to washing process the soft water of the banished cistern, the drying, freshening ride around the wind-driven clothes reel, and the bleaching influence of the sunshine.

"All these were chemical actions and needful for successful washing but none is any longer easily available in our dust-ridden, smoke-laden, congested cities, and scientific substitutes are imperative."

We duplicate not only the banished cistern, the wind-driven clothes reel and the sunshine, but we use a soap that even grandmother would admit to be superior to her best.

It is this combination of old fashioned standards, with modern scientific methods that enables us to give your family linens the snowy color that Grandmother used to glory in.

Telephone and we'll gladly call for your weekly washing

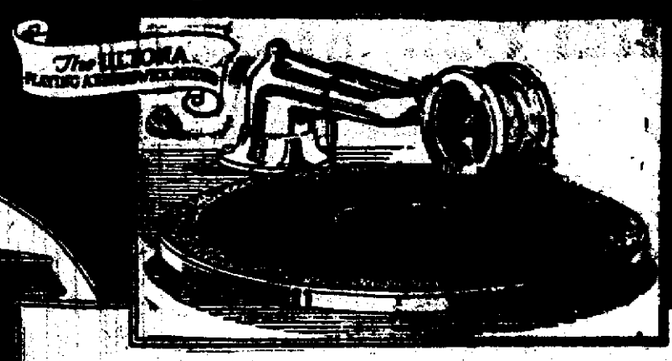
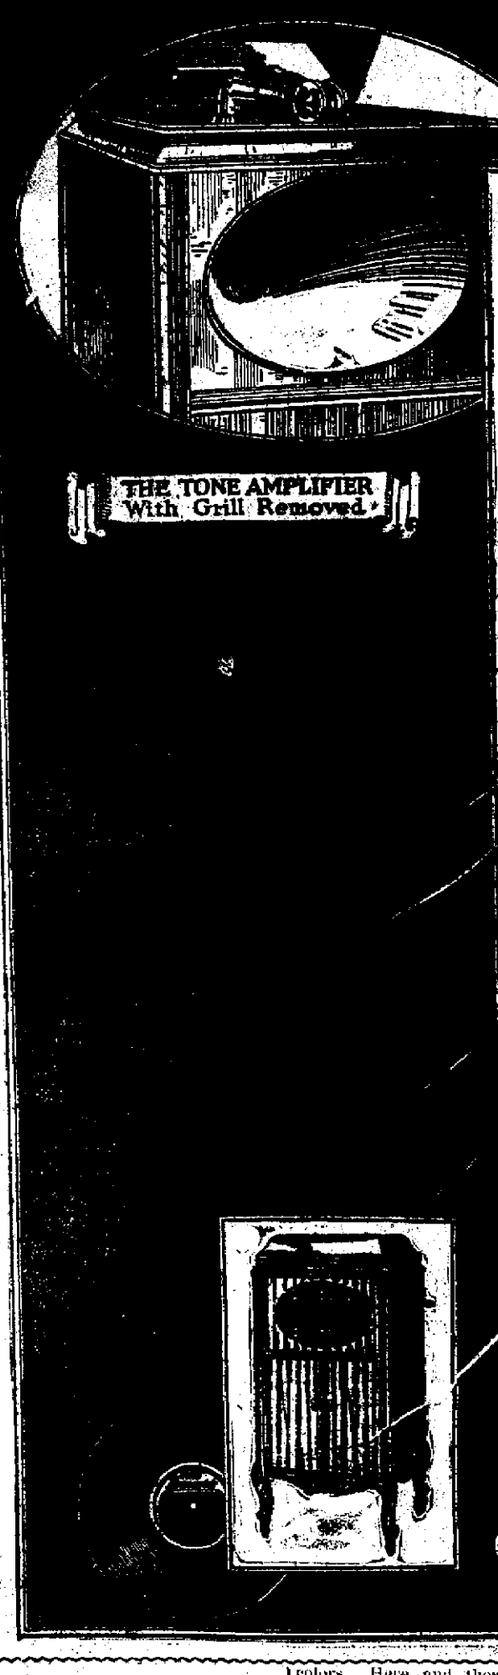
The Brunswick Method of Reproduction





Judge by the Tone

—that is the way to select a phonograph

ALL makes of phonographs are not alike. Phonographs differ because of different methods of reproduction. Each make has its method.

But time has brought many advancements. Now-day phonographs bring all that is best.

The House of Brunswick has introduced several dominant betterments. First came the Ultona, our all-record reproducer. It brought a phonograph that would play all records at their best. Previously, each phonograph favored only its own make of records. That meant limitations or bothersome attachments to the record.

At a turn of the hand the Ultona presents the proper needle, the proper diaphragm. No makeshift attachments are necessary, no compromises in tone results. The Ultona brings out all the shadings of reproduction for transmittal to the amplifier.

Here, again, is a new conception. We introduced an all-wood, moulded, oval amplifier, connecting directly with the tone arm, with no cast metal throat between.

This brings full tones, non-metallic. It conforms with acoustic laws. It brings a new naturalness, greater reality. Our aim is for finest tone.

So we ask you to hear The Brunswick first—before you decide. You'll recognize instantly its betterments. Your idea of tone will change. You will realize that great advancements have taken place.

We suggest also that you hear Brunswick Records, which likewise bring improvements. You'll want to add some to your collection. Brunswick Records can be played on any phonograph with steel or fibre needle.

MANY CAPES WORN IN PARIS

French Styles Counted on to Hold Sway Throughout Country for Fall Wear.

Wise in the changed ways of the world, we no longer look every autumn for a complete revolution in fashion, such as used to happen in the old days, when every gown and suit in a woman's wardrobe might become unwearable almost over night, says a Paris writer in Vogue. Individual taste in dress is allowed its way nowadays, in a manner which was never dreamed of in our mothers' philosophy. Nevertheless, as summer wanes, we look eagerly for indications of coming modes in the dress of women whose ideas as a rule influence the mode, and we attend smart gatherings with our eyes wide open for any indication of future intentions on the part of the great couturiers.

What is worn in Paris during the Grande Semaine still has its bearing on what will be worn by the rest of the world in the autumn. Some of the early events were held in cool and threatening weather, with great gray clouds overhead, ready to pour rain on any expensive finery. The later races were held in magnificent sunshine, but because of the first damp experiences, every other woman was provided with a cape, and every possible variety of this garment was to be seen, in all materials, from rubberized white tussur, with a big collar of black oil cloth, to filmy lace, collared incongruously, but charmingly in black fox. Many capes were plaited all over, and these were sometimes of serge, crepe de chine or chiffon; many were of black velvet, a fashion note for autumn. Some of the linings were white, some were of flowery silks in bright colors. Here and there, blue serge might even be seen, lined with large figured cretonne.

USE RIBBON LOOP TRIMMING

Decoration Popular for Frocks, Millinery and Negligee, as Well as Fancy Work.

A ribbon trimming that is very pretty is made of ribbon loops. Satin ribbon about an inch wide is the favorite ribbon to make it of, and the loops are applied in all sorts of ways. Flat loops about two inches deep are perhaps the most favored. Pale pink ribbon loops make the sole trimming on a young girl's party frock of pink georgette and are looped at intervals of a few inches apart around the round baby neck, hang just below the wide girdle at the top of the skirt and are looped upward on the short bell sleeves and upward from the hem.

On millinery loops of grosgrain ribbon, to imitate fringe, around the crown of this year's turbans are very good.

Other wearables on which this popular ribbon loop trimming is seen include negligee, camisoles, petticoats, children's frocks, evening frocks and fancy work, such as sofa cushions and bureau accessories.

Child's Hair.

One of the worst menaces to a little girl's temper, as well as to her ultimate possession of a fine "crown of glory," is the parting it in the center and tying the hanging front locks back on each side with ribbon. It is rarely a becoming device, and the tresses that are tied back are apt to become a constant source of annoyance to the child, who is blamed for losing her ribbons, which she can scarcely fail to do when at play, unless they are fixed in so tight a way that it may injure the tender hair.

FOUR WILL BE CHARGED WITH PIERCE MURDER

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2—The four persons who were in the apartment with Henry T. Pierce, manufacturing sales agent at the time of his death will be charged with first degree murder, District Attorney Rotan announced today in spite of the alleged confession of Peter T. Tyladway that he alone killed Pierce. The accomplices who were identified as Marie Rodgers, Joseph A. Moss and "Al" Smith will be similarly charged. Detectives today centered their activities on finding "Al" Smith believed to be hiding in some city in Ohio. A fugitive warrant has been issued it was said.

Resourceful Statesman.

Sir Robert Walpole got over a financial difficulty by an ingenious device. Finding George I. an obstacle to the throne, could speak neither English nor French, he conversed with him in Latin. "I governed the kingdom through the medium of bad Latin," he confessed after his retirement from office.

"Molesophy."

"Molesophy" is the delineation of character and reading of the past and future by means of moles on the human face and body. It is an even more ancient occult science than that of palmistry.

Appalling Thought.

What a miserable old world this would be if retribution were dealt out to each of us according to our God deserts.—Hamilton Herald.

Stop Rheumatism With Red Pepper

Rheumatism, lumbago, neuritis, backache, stiff neck, sore muscles, strains, aching joints. When you are suffering so you can hardly get around, just try "Red Pepper Rub" and you will have the quickest relief known.

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers. Instant relief. Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes, it warms the sore spot through and through. Frees the blood circulation, breaks up the congestion—and pain is gone.

Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, costs little at any drug store. Get a jar at once. Almost instant relief awaits you. Use it for colds in chest. No matter what you have used for pain or congestion, don't fail to try Red Pepper Rub.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

by Mary Graham Bonner

Offering Them.

MR. DOWNY WOODPECKER.

"Gossip," said Mr. Downy Woodpecker, "is wrong. Yes, Mrs. Downy, it is wrong. More than that, it is unfair. More than that, it is untrue. More than that, it is unkind."

"Gracious," said Mrs. Downy, "it is a great deal to be more than all those things you've mentioned. But," she said, with a sweet smile upon her beak, "I understand what you mean. Our family has been gossiped about. Alust how often I've heard people say that we're like our cousins, the Sapsuckers, because we bore into the tree, so folks think, for sap. If they'd only come and look at our tongues they'd see how wrong this is. They'd see that our barbed tongues would never do for that.

"But do you suppose they bother? Not a bit of it. They cling to the old, old story. And they don't care about being set right. Why, it's a surprise to me that folks don't come around and say, 'Hey, there, Mrs. Downy, let's have a look at your tongue to see if all this talk is gossip or not.'

"That is what I should think they would say, so they would make sure whether their stories were true or not.

"I've known so many people and creatures who have repeated what they've heard without bothering to find out in the first place whether it was true or not.

"That's such a mistake.

"So much trouble can be caused that way.

"But I must tell you how much I think of the lady who lives in that white house yonder. She doesn't gossip. She doesn't complain. But she does say how nice things are.

"You know there are some people who like to say how nice things are, and others who really hate to admit that everything is all right. They would rather complain and wish they had something else or that things were different.

"That I cannot understand

"Now the lady in the white house is getting ready for some visitors. She is picking flowers so as to make their rooms look bright and gay, for she says they come from the city, where there are no flowers, or rather I should say, gardens with flowers

"And I've heard her say, 'Look at the little woodpeckers, having such a good time.' She has put out bread crumbs and suet and a little pan of water and is offering them to any bird visitors who may come to call on her.

"But, oh, I do wish folks would see that our tongues are different from the way they must think them to be in order to tell the gossipy story which some of them do tell."

"To be sure we don't stick out our tongues rudely but we would show by the way we bore into trees which have the wood for the delicious milky drinks to be found inside, or in dead wood for little delicious bugs, that we aren't harmful sapsuckers. They'd see if only they'd look."

"Ah, yes," said Mr. Downy, "just as I say, gossip is wrong." He was perched on the side of a tree, making a great deal of racket, and Mrs. Downy was on the other side of the tree. He wore a handsome suit, so Mrs. Downy thought, of black and white, with a very dashing red patch of feathers at the back of his head. Mrs. Downy's dress was much the same in color, but she didn't wear the red feathers, because she wanted her Downy mate to be the more stylish of the two.

Beating Their Drums.

"I love people," said Mr. Downy. "I like a sociable life. I enjoy making a noise, drumming for food, and drumming for love," he added softly. Mrs. Downy put her head on one side, shyly.

"We're not like the quarrelsome sparrows," said Mrs. Downy. "Let's sing a song and give a band concert or a drum concert to tell folks we like company."

So Mr. and Mrs Downy began beating their drums on the bark of the tree and many of their family joined them. Mr. Downy led the band, singing gaily:

I beat a drum and so do we all,
My drum is the bark of a tree,
And if you come around some day
I'll rub-a-dub-dub for thee.

Falconry Still Practiced.

Falconry known to the Chinese 2,000 B. C., and a popular sport in days of Nineveh and Babylon, 1,200 B C., is still in vogue in certain parts of England. Wild hawks are caught and tamed for the sport, and the Illustrated London News recently related how one old Hollander, with two assistants, captured a sufficient number of the sporting birds to keep English clubs supplied. The hawks are trapped with decoy pigeons and nets. The hawks bear a distinct resemblance to smaller species of the American family.

leader. Accordingly a promise was made to show how it was accomplished, but for obvious reasons no engagement was set and the manner in which I would be shown was left in the dark.

I was stopping at the Hotel Imperial, Cork, when the following afternoon after my talk with the Sinn Feinner, I was approached by a young man in the hotel lobby who announced himself as a "Volunteer officer." A number of men known to have been British secret service agents were present in the lobby at the time and he glanced around towards them rather anxiously.

"That's alright, come along with me," said the young man and without more ado strolled out of the hotel to a waiting car. A short ride and the car stopped in front of a small shop. We got out and entered the shop. The volunteer lead the way out a back door into the rear entrance of another building, thence to the opposite street, where a donkey car was waiting. It was now about dusk and we jogged off to a plain looking house on the outskirts of the town. On entering this house, we passed a woman in the hallway and a few words in Gaelic were spoken. Climbing the stairs we came to a door which opened into a fair sized unfurnished room. Eight young men several of them mere boys, were inside. They were in stocking-feet and were going through squad drill under the tutelage of a youngster who evidently knew what he was about. Drill practice on a larger scale than this is carried out in the country districts, in secluded fields, after nightfall.

The system of communications used by Sinn eFiners is not officially known, but it is known that they are surprisingly well posted on nearly all events affecting them and sometimes the news of an attack on military or police or the burning of an Irish village by Black and Tan police in a distant and isolated section of the country is known to the Sinn Fein leaders before it has come over the telegraph wires to the British authorities. When it is remembered that 87 per cent. of the people of South and West Ireland are Sinn Fein in sympathy, as evidenced by the last general election, and that many of the telephones belong to the party, it is easily seen how this can happen.

CARE OF HARNESS IS OF MUCH IMPORTANCE

Wash Thoroughly With Soap and Water Before Oiling.

It Will Last Longer If Kept Clean and Is Less Liable to Cause Sores on Horses—Collars Should Be Examined Often.

Harness should be kept clean and well oiled. It will then be less liable to cause sores on the horses and will last longer. Before the harness is oiled it should be taken apart and thoroughly washed with soap and water. When nearly dry apply neatsfoot oil with a sponge or a woolen rag. Do not hang harness in heat or in the sun to dry. A tablespoonful of lampblack with two ounces of melted beeswax may be added to the oil for a black dressing. Fish oil may be used on harness, or prepared oils may be secured at harness shops. All parts of the harness should be strong.

Every horse should have its own collar, which should fit snugly to the neck from top to bottom. Most sore necks are caused by large collars or by draught being too low on the point of the shoulder. To fit a new or an old collar to a horse soak the collar over night in water, wipe it off in the morning, and fit it on the horse. Work moderately through the day. The collars should be examined every morning and the bearing surface kept clean and smooth. The horse's neck should be kept clean. A good plan in hot weather is to wash it every night with a weak solution of salt water. Keep the collar and hames buckled tight.

Before hitching to a wagon be sure that the neck yoke is safe and that the traces will not become unfastened.

DEVICE TO DESTROY STUMPS

Burner Made of Sheet Metal Has Been Tested and Found Practical—Easily Operated.

The use of dynamite to draw tree stumps from the ground may be substituted by a new device recently invented which does not break up the ground. This invention to burn out the tree stumps has been tested and proved practical. The burner is made of black sheet metal in three sections. It is operated by placing the bottom section over the stump and igniting the stump at the base. The top sections are then connected and the burner will do its work. According to the inventor, thirty burners a day can be operated by one man, each burner obliterating three or four stumps.

SUPPLY OF EGGS INCREASED

Animal Food Essential to Diet of Fowl Must Be Supplied in Winter as Well as Summer.

A bone cutter is an important part of the equipment for every farm poultry department. In summer when the fowls can range over the farm they can supply for themselves the animal food so essential to their diet. But in winter the supply of eggs will be greatly increased if attention is given to this part of the fowl's ration.

INJURY BY MITES AND LICE

Pests Sap Vitality of Fowls and Prevent Growth or Lessen Production of Eggs.

Mites and lice frequently sap the vitality of the fowl and prevent growth or lessen the egg production. A thorough cleaning of the house, regular applications of disinfectants to the roosts and nests, and a frequent dusting of the fowls will control these pests.

FOWLS IN WINTER QUARTERS

No Sudden Change in Feeding Should Be Made for Pullets After They Are Once Moved.

All early hatched pullets should be moved to winter quarters by the middle of October and after once moved no sudden changes in feeding methods should be made. Such pullets if properly housed, should start laying early and should produce eggs all winter.

Famous Fish Family.

Pickerel is dimunitive for pike, and is applied to the smaller species of the pike family and to the young of the larger species. It is most often applied to the banded pickerel, which seldom exceeds 12 inches in length. The muskellunge is a very large species of pike, sometimes attaining a length of eight feet. It is found in northern fresh waters of North America, and is a famous game fish.

Some Very Rare Coins.

Some United States coins are very rare. There are only three of the gold eagle of 1708 in existence. The government owns one of these. They were made in the first United States mint, in Philadelphia. In 1792 a copper cent with a tiny silver spot was issued. Perhaps none of these is in existence. A. D. Millhouse, who lived near Murphysboro, Ill., at one time owned the first five-dollar bill issued by the United States treasury. It was No. 1, series A, issued in March, 1862.

Try Sulphur On AN ECzema Skin

Costs Little and Overcomes Trouble Almost Over Night

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment without delay. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then, just to keep them fit.

ROSS & WOODS

'Twas the Night Before Christmas

"I suppose," remarked Farmer Jones, "that for tomorrow I can expect the annual surplus of bright yellow ties, the tomfool array of pink-ribboned galluses and the eternal flood of squeeze-the-toes slippers." Then Mrs. Jones smole a smile, for she'd given me a dollar for

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

And she knew that the Christmas treat of a lifetime was in store for Jones on every Thursday of the coming year.

She's a good buyer, is Mrs. Jones, and she knows a bargain when she sees one. Even before I met her she had made a careful search through all the stores and was almost in despair. There seemed to be no gift at any price that would "just suit" her husband. When I told her about Country Gentleman farm service, covering every farm interest, in 52 big weekly issues full of farm helpfulness and inspiration, her eyes beamed and she said, "Here's my dollar."

How many farm-minded relatives or friends are on your Christmas list this year? Here's the gift just made for them! Without extra cost, a beautiful full-colored Maxfield Parrish gift announcement will be sent in your name to reach each friend on Christmas morning.

To Remove Tattoo Marks.

Tattoo marks may be removed by the application of a paste of salicylic acid and glycerine. A compress of the paste is applied to the tattooing and the whole secured with sticking plaster. After about eight days the paste is taken off, the dead skin removed and the application of paste repeated. As a rule about three applications do the work.

Rag Dolls

Every Christmas the rag doll makes its appearance. There are rag dolls of high and low degree. Two high-class little persons are shown in the picture. These are made of heavy domestic cut by a paper pattern which can be bought. Their faces are painted with water colors, their hair made of yarn and they are completely dressed with clothes that afford the joy of taking them off and putting them on. Even their slippers may be made of black oil cloth. One of these lady dolls is supposed to be a boy and he has a pair of rompers instead of a dress under his coat.

Gifts That Please

Of all the practical gifts that are sure to please there are none more dependable than good-looking waste baskets. There are many kinds to choose from but, valued most, are those made at home of fabrics, as cretonne, sateen, tapestry, satin, colored oilcloth and other things. Foundations of heavy cardboard or light wood are covered with these materials. Two attractive baskets are shown in the picture, above, one of tapestry and satin and one of heavy sateen. The latter is provided with a handle of braided cord for hanging.

Follow the Right Path.

Choose always the way that seems the best, however rough it may be. Custom will render it easy and agreeable.—Pythagoras.

Oil Pipes Are Rifled.

The sluggishness with which thick oil is moved through the pipes in which it is carried away from the oil fields has given the oil people of California considerable trouble. Mixing it with water was found to improve matters, but there is difficulty of separating the oil and water which at the end of the trip has formed an emulsion difficult to handle. It has now been found that rifling the inner surface of the pipes has the desired effect in that the friction generates a heat which warms the body of oil and enables it to be moved more rapidly.

Exactly So.

Wilson and Wilton were discussing the moralities when the first put this question: "Well, what is conscience, anyhow?" "Conscience," said Wilton, who prides himself upon being a bit of a pessimist, "is the thing we always believe should bother the other fellow."—Toledo Blade.

Definition of "Culture."

Culture is then properly described not as having its origin in curiosity but as having its origin in the love of perfection; it is a study of perfection.—Matthew Arnold.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take a glass of Salts to flush out your kidneys and neutralize irritating acids

Kidney and bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and osmetimes very painful, this is really one omf the most simple ailments to overcomes. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS

CURWENSVILLE

William H. Thompson, was notified yesterday morning of the death of his daughter, Mrs. Bert Tillson, which occurred at Williamsport at an early hour. She was operated on for appendicitis, but could not stand the strain and her death resulted. Her age was about 39 years. Her husband and one daughter survives her. She was the daughter of William H. and Josephine Thompson and was born and reared in Curwensville, living here until her marriage with Mr. Tillson, since which time she has made her home in Williamsport. Mr. Thompson left yesterday morning for her home. At this writing no further particulars could be learned and a further notice will appear later.

The milk depot on South Thompson street was entered Tuesday night by a couple of boys who live on Grampian road, who took a sum of money. Mr. Lucas, the proprietor learned who they were and made them disgorge all they had stolen but seventeen cents, and has decided that he will not prosecute the lads.

Paul McKenrick, son of J. Frank McKenrick, of Kittanning, dropped into town on Monday and spent the night with his uncle, Samuel McKenrick, on South Side. The McKenrick family resided in Curwensville some years ago, the father teaching in the public schools.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Presbyterian church gave Mrs. Howard McCloskey a surprise party at her home on Ridge avenue last evening. A goodly number was in attendance and spent a most enjoyable evening with their hostess.

Yesterday, the first day of the deer hunting season, did not open very favorably for the hunters, it being a dark gloomy and rainy day. A number of the animals were seen however, but no report has been made yet of any being slaughtered.

Walt H. Thompson, who spent a half dozen days in town with relatives, left yesterday for Williamsport and to put it as he stated "to hole up for the winter."

Lafayette Thompson, one of the successful farmers residing near Glen Richey, was in town transacting business yesterday. He reports the mines in his neighborhood as curtailing their output.

Mrs. Raymond Sipes and little daughter who has been absent from home for a month past, spending the time visiting in Akron, Ohio, and Altoona, returned home on Monday evening.

The fires will be pulled from under the boilers at Summit tannery on Friday and the plant will shut down for an indefinite period.

The Curwensville Motor Transit Co. will resume service over the state road tomorrow on the following schedule:

Leave Curwens.	Leave Clfd.

Egg Long as a Bean.

Egg of birds are among the loveliest things in nature, and they have always held a great fascination for man, says the American Forestry Magazine. IS NAMED LEGION HISTORIAN

Eben Putnam Performed Similar Service Before the Office Was Made Permanent.

A life of singular variety and adventure has been that of Eben Putnam, new-chosen national historian of the American Legion. Mr. Putnam was born in Salem, Mass., Oct. 10, 1868. He received his education in private schools and the Cambridge high school. While he was a boy he was the companion and assistant of his father, the distinguished anthropologist, Prof. Frederic Ward Putnam, in archaeological explorations in various parts of the world.

Mr. Putnam has been deeply interested in genealogy, eugenics and New England histories, and has compiled and published a number of works on these subjects. He has conducted extensive investigations over a period of more than twenty-five years into the question of immigration. He is a member of the Society of Colonial Wars, the Sons of the American Revolution, the Military Order of Foreign Wars, and American Historical Society.

Early in the fall of 1915 Mr. Putnam became convinced that this country must enter the war eventually, and joined the training school organized in his state. He attended the Plattsburg camp the following summer and the next winter was a member of a provisional battalion of infantry. He was barred from a commission in the line because of his age, but on April 4, 1917, was commissioned a captain in the quartermaster corps. His son also was in the service.

Mr. Putnam served as assistant to the depot quartermaster in Boston and later served overseas in the fuel branch. He was discharged August 22, 1919. Mr. Putnam is a charter member of Wellesley Post No. 72 of the American Legion, and was insurance officer and post historian until he resigned to accept the post of department historian for Massachusetts, where he served also in the capacity of a member of the state executive committee. He had performed the duties of a national historian of the Legion before that office was made permanent.

TO BE GREAT WAR MEMORIAL

State of Indiana to Erect Magnificent Building to House Legion National Headquarters.

The erection of a magnificent building to house national headquarters of The American Legion in Indianapolis is assured following the action of the Indiana state legislature, which voted that the state war memorial should take the form of a structure for this purpose.

A tract of state-owned land in the center of Indianapolis, 900 feet long by 450 feet wide, will be dedicated to this project and the city has been authorized to include two additional city blocks adjoining the state properties. The result will be a splendid plaza with American Legion headquarters in the center. The land is valued at approximately $12,000,000.

The Legion building will be constructed under the control of a board of trustees appointed by the governor of Indiana. All members will be men of the Legion. Already the Indiana legislature has voted a tax levy which will yield more than $3,000,000 as an earnest of its desire to adequately house and equip national headquarters of the Legion.

SINCERE FRIEND OF LEGION

Mrs. Janette Logan Jacobs Has Been Hard Worker in Interest of Disabled Ex-Service Men.

A fearless and devoted worker in the interest of the disabled ex-service man, Mrs. Janette Logan Jacobs of New York city, has proved herself a sincere friend of the American Legion. It was Mrs. Jacobs who supplied the Legion with many of the facts which it laid before congress when it demanded the reform of the federal board for vocational education, a reform which had been carried out largely under the direction of the veterans' organization.

Post Meets in Two Towns.

When Lee-Bishop post of the American Legion was organized in the two towns of Hudson and Twinsburg, O., a novel scheme was hit upon to avoid jealousy between the communities. The post holds its sessions in the two places on alternate meeting nights.

sublimate or formaldehyde. The crop gets the best of care. The fields are visited twice during the summer by the state inspector and all foreign varieties pulled out. At harvest they are carefully assorted, only sound stock true to name being sacked. HOGGING OFF CORN IN FAVOR

North Dakota College Secured Return of $45.54 Per Acre by Using Herd of Shotes.

While corn usually is considered not as a money crop but one to clean up the land, yet the North Dakota Agricultural college received a return of $45.54 per acre by using 48 shotes to hog off 16 acres of flint corn in 1918, according to J. H. Shepperd of the experiment station.

"The hogs were turned in the field September 6, when they averaged 109 pounds in weight, and left there until November 12, making an average gain of 94 pounds, or a gain of 281.75 pounds per acre. They were marketed at 10.31 cents, which, allowing for shrinkage, gave a return of $45.54 per acre."

Put Body Above Soul.

In 3000 and 4000 B. C. the Egyptians believed in a life after death and in a day of resurrection—a belief brought out of Egypt by the Children of Israel and handed down by them to all subsequent Christians. No biblical scholar now wholly disbelieves this. But the Egyptian belief was materialistic rather than spiritual; a tenet that took little or no account of the soul. The body was the thing. Hence mummies and statues in tombs.—Exchange.

Abbey as Vicarage.

The earl of Shaftsbury has restored to the church at Horton, Dorset, for use as a vicarage, the fine old manor or abbey house with land immediately adjoining it. The house, which at one time formed part of a Benedictine abbey, possesses a large kitchen with an open fireplace in which an ox could easily be roasted. The kitchen will be used as a parish hall or a village institute.—London Mail.

ALCO

The completely pasteurized NUT BUTTER.

THERE is no law in advertising. All that could possibly be said about the best product in the world, can just as well be said about the worst. So after all, the taste of the product and the standing of the maker are the only tests.

ALCO is the completely pasteurized nut butter made by Wm. J. Mealey, exclusive churners for nearly half a century.

CREAM FOR CATARRH OPENS UP NOSTRILS

Tells How To Get Quick Relief from Head-Colds. It's Splendid!

In one minute your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head wil clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffling, blowing, headache, dryness. No struggling for breath at night; your cold or catarrh will be gone.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic, healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane and relief comes instantly.

It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed-up with a cold or nasty catarrh—relief comes so quickly.

Believe in Yourself.

The most difficult thing in the world is to make people believe in their own bigness, to take stock in their own latent ability. THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

TO CHEER DISABLED HEROES

All Legion Posts to Join in Campaign to Aid World War Men in Hospitals.

More than 2,000,000 men in almost 10,000 American Legion posts in all parts of the United States and its possessions have been enlisted in a campaign to make life more worth living to some 20,000 sick and disabled heroes of the World war who still are patients in government and private hospitals and to humanize all activities that enter into their care and treatment. Government bureaus at Washington have supplied the Legion with lists of these hospitals, about 1,200 in number, and the number of ex-service men who are patients in each. The country has been districted according to Legion membership and each of the five national vice commanders of the Legion has been assigned to supervise the work of Legion posts, committees and individuals in various states. A plan to take a census of all ex-service men, especially those still in hospitals, and straighten out their compensation and insurance claims, is included in the general program. The full weight of the women's auxiliary of the Legion will also be thrown behind the movement and the assistance of all loyal Americans is being asked for and gladly accepted.

"These men in hospitals are our first concern," F. W. Galbraith, Jr., national commander of the Legion, said recently, "and the situation with regard to them is far from satisfactory. They are coming to believe, and justly to a large extent, that their country has forgotten them. Their greatest need is a friendly handclasp, cheerful smile and an unqualified and oft-repeated demonstration that we have not forgotten them and will never forget them while God gives us strength to stand four-square with and behind them so long as they need our help. It's not our job alone—it's everybody's job—but it's just a little closer to the hearts of men and women of the Legion."

The Legion takes the position that the maimed World war heroes represent America's fundamental obligation and that the Legion, backed by the full weight of sound public opinion, can make conditions with regard to them as nearly perfect as human agencies will permit.

TO MEMORY OF COMRADES

Bronze Tablet Is Unveiled by Guttenberg Post of New Jersey, Assisted by School Children.

Guttenberg Post No. 64 of the American Legion of New Jersey recently took charge of the unveiling of a bronze tablet on the town hall, commemorating the death of seven local men in the World war. The tablet was unveiled by T. Kern, post commander while 50 school children sang "Lead Kindly Light."

ENDOWMENT FUND PLANNED

Paris (France) Post Begins Drive to Raise Large Sum to Aid Ex-Service Men.

The Paris (France) post of the American Legion has started a drive for a five million-franc endowment fund with which to meet the demand made upon it daily by ex-service men who are stranded, and by their families. The Paris post has been kept busy helping former vets who were sick, straightening out legal tangles, securing employment and helping the stranded to get passage home.

The Paris post is obviously barred from utilizing the usual method of raising funds by entertainment for the community, and has been forced to appeal to the outside. The American embassy and the consulate semi-officially recognize the post's work by referring hundreds of cases to its officers.

Rich Reward For Winners In Ring

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Dec. 1—Parents with "get rich quick" ideas for their offspring should start raising their boys to be fighters.

What is a B. A., an LL. D. or a diploma in engineering compared to a two-fisted graduate of the ring school who can go out and earn $300,000 for not more than an hour's work?

Jack Dempsey, who doesn't knew but what Chaucer was a race horse, is to get $300,000 for not more than fifteen rounds of boxing some nic afternoon next summer.

Georges Carpentier, whose arithmetic has been acquired counting purse money since he was twelve years old, is to get $200,000 for being the necessary second principal in the bout.

In addition both are to receive 25 per cent. of the motion picture rights.

If the bout goes long enough, the celluloid post-mortem of the affair

When Tex Rickard, king of all the plungers, told the world that he had guaranteed Jess Willard $100,000 to meet Jack Dempsey, the sporting public rolled over twice and revived only with a game effort.

It was more than double the share of both fighters in any previous bout.

Now, in view of the half-million dollar purse hung up for the DempseyCarpentier battle, that offer was a 10, 20, 30 affair.

All records of the past have been made to look pikerish in face of this staggering offer which assumes more the proportion of a big Wall Street deal than a matter of gloves and fists and some sport.

Rickard, Cochrane and Brady will have to draw a million dollar house to come out ahead.

An idea of what the shades of the "old gladiators" must be thinking about may be imagined with this table of some of the big bouts of the past:

Date	Winner-Loser	Place	Gate Receipts	Fighter's Share
1899 Nov. 3	Jeffries-Sharkey	New York	$ 66,300	$ 36,465
1903 Aug. 14	Jeffries-Corbett	San Francisco	63,340	43,638
1900 Aug. 30	Corbett-McCoy	New York	56,350	33,810
1904 Dec. 20	Nelson-Britt	Colma, Cal.	48,311	31,402
1904 Mar. 25	Britt-Corbett	San Francisco	32,245	24,989
1902 July 25	Jeffries-Fitzsimmons	San Francisco	31,800	22,260
1897 Mar. 17	Fitzsimmons-Corbett	Carson City	22,600	16,500
1901 Nov. 15	Jeffries-Ruhlin	San Francisco	30,300	19,250
1905 Sept. 5	Nelson-Britt	San Francisco	27,700	15,273
1904 Oct. 31	Britt-Gans	San Francisco	21,765	15,235
1903 Dec. 19	Jeffries-Munroe	San Francisco	21,761	15,232
1896 Dec. 2	Fitzsimmons-Sharkey	San Francisco	21,000	14,700
1903 Mar. 31	Corbett-McGovern	San Francisco	20,880	12,528
1906 Sept. 3	Gans-Nelson	Goldfield	33,300	30,000
1907 Sept. 9	Gans-Britt	San Francisco	36,000	26,000
1908 June 4	Ketchell-Papke	Milwaukee	21,224	12,120
1908 July 4	Nelson-Gans	San Francisco	24,280	17,300
1908 Dec. 25	Johnson-Burns	Sydney, Aus.	131,000	35,000
1910 July 4	Johnson-Jeffries	Reno, Nev.	270,775	121,000

In addition to the purse and movie money, Dempsey and Carpentier will cash in heavily after the fight.

If Dempsey retains the title, movie and exhibition work with a theatrical tour of the country should net him a small fortune.

If Carpentier wins the title all he will have to do for the remainder of his days will be to count the money that pours into him from his European admirers. Even if he loses, his services will be worth almost as much.

With the tendency of the modern fighter to hold his purse strings tight, neither one will have to worry about the future after their little meeting.

Verily, verily, raise your boy to be a fighter.

to decide who will fill his place at the session this year.

It is unlikely that another special session election will be called to name successors to either Congressman Garland or Justice Stewart.

Stewart's place will probably be filled by appointment until January, 1921, when his term expired. He was in line for the post of chief justice before his death.

Congressman Garland's place, apparently, will remain unfilled until the regular election next November.

Soap Mystery Is On.

There are records of the use of soap by the ancients, but it is now that soap implements of this period are found by archeologists. This is said to be due to the circumstance that a coat of clay or other substance, producing a change in the crystalline structure, the nature of which does not seem to be clearly understood. This coat is nothing else than a fine grey powder. The process proceeds much more rapidly at certain times than it does at others and seems to be transmitted from one piece of tin to another.

Christmas Circus

Crepe paper offers any number of good opportunities for making Christmas gifts, especially for the children. Printed figures of wild, or of domestic animals, are cut out, to make menageries or familiar barnyard friends, that delight the youngsters. The pictures are pasted over stiff cardboard and then cut out, following the outline of the animal, but leaving a straight piece to provide a support.

A Letter From Santa Clause To the Good Little Folks in Your House

Every day this live long year I have been hard at it making toys for little tots, playthings for the kiddies, dolls for the girls.

And every time that I made something extra nice I have set it one side for you.

Now that Christmas morning is only a few weeks away, I would like to have you see what I have just for your own self.

Ask father or mother to bring you down to LEONARDSON'S, where I have put all the best of my Christmas things, so that they will be handy for Xmas eve.

Look them all over and write me a little letter, telling me just which things you like best and give your letter to father or mother to send to me, or mail it yourself in the mail box in Leonardson's toy department, so that I will know just what to bring you that will please you most.

And now, good-bye till Christmas morning.

Your best of friends,

SANTA CLAUSE.

We Cannot Quit When We Are So Near the Goal

WHEN THE DRIVE FOR $200,000 FOR THE CLEARFIELD HOSPITAL FUND BEGAN IT WAS CONFIDENTLY BELIEVED BY ITS DIRECTORS THAT THE SUM COULD BE RAISED. THE GENEROUS GIFT OF $35,000 FROM MR. H. B. SWOOPE HAS BROUGHT THE TOTAL SO NEAR TO THE GOAL THAT WE CANNOT QUIT.

THE GOAL IS	$200,000.00
THERE HAS BEEN SUBSCRIBED UP TO NOVEMBER 24	$162,966.25
THE SHORTAGE IS ONLY	$ 37,043.75

The Drive Has Been Extended to January 1, 1921

WHAT CLEARFIELD HAS DONE, CAN DO AND MUST DO.

The quota for Clearfield is $100,000. Up to November 24th the people of Clearfield have subscribed $76,499.16. But only about 800 have contributed to this fund. Many have given generously.

Fifty-four individual subscriptions total the magnificent sum of $57,000, but in this list there are many names missing that should be included therein.

Clearfield people can subscribe the balance, $23,500.84.

Clearfield people must subscribe $23,500.84

Notice that Clearfield is farther from her quota than the balance of the county. The gift of Mr. Swoope and others throughout the county is a challenge to the men of Clearfield.

In subscribing $76,499.16 the people of Clearfield who have given have been generous indeed, but the number of givers represents only a small portion of Clearfield's people.

A FINAL DRIVE WILL BE STARTED TUES., DEC. 7

The Directors feel confident that when the soliciting is taken up again under reorganized plans which are being outlined now that Clearfield can easily make up her quota. Those who have not yet subscribed are depended upon to help do it. While a complete canvass will be made, both in homes and industrial plants about the city, it will lighten the expense of the drive and lighten the burden of the voluntary solicitors if you will call at headquarters and make a voluntary subscription. The drive headquarters are open every evening until 8:30 o'clock. You can pay what you can in cash, pledge the balance on your own terms.

CLEARFIELD, THE HOME OF THE HOSPITAL, MUST FINISH HER PART OF THE CAMPAIGN.

No matter where you live you need not hesitate about sending your contribution direct to Campaign Headquarters by mail or by somebody coming to Clearfield. All subscriptions so received will be credited direct to the sender and to the district from which the money comes. Inasmuch as the Campaign will not end until after the Christmas season and nearly all of you will be visiting our city to do holiday shopping and business we call your attention to this opportunity to make your contribution and be done with it. Look over the list of quotas and subscriptions to date and if your district is behind, do your full share towards putting it on the Honor Roll.

THE BALANCE OF THE COUNTY HAS DONE NOBLY

Her quota was	$100,000.00
She has raised to November 24	$ 86,467.09
She is going to raise	$ 13,532.91

The directors can speak with a great optimism about the balance of the county. The districts which have made their final reports lead them to believe that only this extension of time is needed to enable all the districts to make up their quota. District workers are being requested to renew their efforts and they have indicated their willingness to see the job through.

The appended statements shows JUST HOW YOUR DISTRICT STANDS.

The REPUTATION of CLEARFIELD HOSPITAL

For surgical skill, hospital efficiency and community good is state wide. Strangers from all parts of the state come to our hospital for examinations, operations and treatment.

Clearfield, the parent of the hospital, cannot and will not default in the making up of its quota.
The numerous districts tributary to the hospital who have not as yet reported can and will make up their quota.

It means the best of surgical skill and hospital care in case of accidents.

It means that the unfortunate and needy for years to come will find refuge, rest and health.

It means that the sufferer among us will have the benefit of first class equipment for medical examinations, and locating of serious ailments by the most advanced methods known to medical science.

REMEMBER that the financing of the requirements of the Hospital insures to the man or woman who is destitute the same high type of medical and surgical care and skill which is given the person who pays for a private room.

It means the saving and prolonging of life and lives.

CLEAN SWEEP OF FEDERAL OFFICERS IS TO BE EXPECTED

want a change more than they ever before wanted anything in American government. They want a clean sweep from top to bottom. They have expressed in the most emphatic manner possible their dissatisfaction not only with President Wilson, but with the type of men he has been accustomed to appoint to public service.

"In view of this expression in such definite terms direct from the people, it is ton the duty of the United States Senate to refuse to confirm the appointment of those men who have been recently or who may hereafter be nominated by the President for important official positions? Inexperience and incompetency seem to have been the determining qualifications when President Wilson has made selections for important government positions. That there have been some exceptins to the rule does not change the fact, and the country, therefore, looks with suspicion upon any appointment President Wilson may make. Wastefulness and inefficiency, if nothing worse, have caracterized almost every department, during the present administration and particularly during the past four years. Things have been going from bad to worse.

"Rejection of the recent appointments to the Shipping Board is certainly desirable. A number of vacancies on the board have existed for many months without any move on the part of the President to fill the positions. After all this delay, no great injury can be done if the appointments he has made are permitted to be temporary, and terminated with the action of the Senate rejecting the appointments.

"In all instances where nominations have been made, the nominees will fill their positions until the Senate has acted. Public service will suffer, during that period only as it has suffered in the past, thru the lack of qualifications on the part of those selected by President Wilson to perform governmental duties.

"By an overwhelming majority the people of the country have expressed their confidence in Warren G. Harding as a chief executive for teh nation. Mr. Harding will be responsible for the administration of government affairs for the next four years. In order that he may have power commensurate with his responsibilities and may have under him men of whose qualifications he is the judge, President Wilson's recent and future appointments should be rejected and the new President given an opportunity to surround himself with men of experience and ability who will aid him in carrying out the promises made by him when he was a candidate.

"Thus will the public interest best be served."

DADDY'S EVENING STORY TALE

THE SALAD.

"I am very proud," said the salad, "and when you look at me I think you will understand it," it added.

"Oh, yes, you have a great deal of reason for being proud," said the roses.

"By the way," said the salad, "are you purple roses or what?"

"It's a puzzle to some creatures," said the roses, "and we can understand it, for while there are many of our family—the Rambler family who wear pink dresses and who wear red dresses—there aren't many like us.

"Yes, most of our family wear either pink or red. You've seen out in the garden the pink rambler roses and you've seen the red ones?"

"Yes," said the salad. "We saw that before we all came in to be made into a salad.

"And we saw a lattice or something of the sort covered by a lot of your family. We're to be for the big supper party tonight which is to follow the dance, and you see we're all ready here, waiting for the time to come.

"The bread and butter and the sandwiches are all under those napkins

"I Hope They Will Like Me."

and there is cake on many of the plates which are covered up, and there is cocoa coming to be put into all the cups you see and the cups will stay right on the saucers you see them on.

"Then there will be ice cream, too, which will rejoice the hearts of the people at the party—or rather after the party at the supper. And you are used for decorations. You're lovely, you are really lovely, but you are a strange color. Tell us what you call yourselves?"

"We belong," said the roses, "to the Blue Rambler Rose family. There aren't many of us about. As I said before most of the members of our family wear either pink or red. And they dress very handsomely. I'm fond myself of both red rambler roses and pink rambler roses.

"But we were asked to belong to the Blue Rambler Roses—that is our family were asked this some time ago and so we do the same as we belong to the family."

"But you don't look blue, you look purple," said the salad.

"That's so," the roses answered. "Shall we explain to you?"

"Do," the salad answered.

"You see," the roses answered, "we were asked to belong to the Blue Rambler Rose family as we said.

"It was a funny thing but all of us seemed to care more for purple than for blue. We spoke to Mother Nature about it, and she said it was quite all right to have our dresses more of a purple shade than of a blue shade, so we have them that way. We're all a little fonder of purple than of blue—just this shade which is very like purple and yet has a little of a tinge of shade of blue about it, too."

"I am so glad I understand," said the salad. "Well, you do like me, do you? You see I am supposed to look like a candlestick and candle. I have this fine yellow dressing over me and I'm made in the shape of a big candle stick.

"Then on top of me I have a banana standing up to make it look like a candle and on top of that there is a little red cherry which is supposed to be the light on the top of the candle.

"Hush! I do believe I hear the guests. Oh, I hope they will like me. I have lots of good things in me."

And then they heard the guests admiring the wonderful looking salad and the strange but pretty roses, and the salad whispered: "I'm glad I came to the party. And I'm glad there is so much in me that is good. There is a little touch of onion for flavoring and beets and lettuce and carrots and peas and celery and cucumbers and nuts. I tell you I'm a rich salad!"

But there was no more talking after that, for the salad was being quickly eaten and as it was almost gone the banana candle on the top said: "Oh, it's fine to be a salad and to be a successful one!"

A great deal is made of the fact that more occupations are open to women than formerly, but this is interesting only to the girl who is ready to fit herself for these occupations. The fact that many women are now practicing medicine makes no particular difference to you unless you wish to study medicine. SEEK NEWS OF MISSING MEN

Effort Being Made to Solve War Mysteries on Behalf of Relatives and Friends.

Was William Ross Beck of the One Hundred and Nineteenth infantry, reported died of wounds on October 9, 1918, seen later in a British hospital or not?

What became of Clyde Abel of the Eighteenth infantry after he was wounded and taken to hospital on November 7, 1918?

Who can tell what happened to Benjamin F. Ludwig of the Sixtieth infantry whose letters home stopped with the signing of the armistice?

These are some of the war mysteries the solution of which is being sought on behalf of relatives and friends of the lost soldiers. Recent lists include the following cases:

WILLIAM ROSS BECK, Co. M, 119th infantry, reported wounded Oct. 9, 1918, and died the same day. His mother has heard that an acquaintance saw him in a British hospital a month later. She also would like to hear from soldier who returned home on S. S. Sierra in December, 1918. Address Mrs. W. W. Beck, Gays, Ill.

CLYDE ABEL, pvt., 36th division, was transferred to Co. E, 18th infantry, First division, and was wounded and taken to hospital Nov. 7, 1918. Nothing heard of him after that date. His father, Edward Abel, Route 2, Buchanan, Mich., would like to hear from anyone who knew him, especially officers of his company.

BENJAMIN F. LUDWIG, pvt., Hdq. Co., 60th infantry, Fifth division, has not been heard from since the armistice. He sailed for France July 28, 1918, and his mother received several letters from him after his arrival. With the signing of the armistice communication stopped. Write Frank C. Love, 408 City Bank building, Syracuse, N. Y.

FABIAN HANSON, 32nd infantry, reported killed in action, Nov. 9, 1918. His mother lived in Sweden, and when she heard he had enlisted she started for this country. It took her four months to get a ship, and when she arrived her son had sailed for France. The next she heard he was killed. Anyone with information should address Mrs. Elizabeth Rodgers, 58 North Waiola avenue, La Grange, Ill., and she will communicate with the mother.

MURRAY GORDON, pvt., Co. D, 9th infantry, severely wounded at Chauteau Thierry. Last information concerning him contained in letter written by a nurse at Hospital No. 6. Anyone with information, address Lee Hoffman, General Delivery, Arcadia, Fla.

EARL V. JEFFERSON, sergt., Co. D, 102nd infantry, was killed in action in July, 1918. Those who knew him and circumstances of his death write Commander, Earl V. Jefferson Post, American Legion, Hope, N. D.

RECTOR MORGAN, pvt., Co. K, 166th infantry, reported killed, in action but his mother can get no further information. Anyone who knew him in France write Mrs. Ray Morgan, Condon, Ore.

Oldest and Youngest Members.

After extensive research, Kansas members of the Legion believe that they have found the oldest and youngest Legion members in the state. Col. Ezra B. Fuller, member of the Leavenworth post, is seventy-one years old and has four wars to his credit—the Civil, Indian, Spanish-American and World wars. Colonel Fuller is still on duty at the staff college, Fort Leavenworth. James W. Weed of Lawrence had just passed his fourteenth birthday when the United States entered the war. One year later Weed, as the story goes, slipped by the recruiting officials and was accepted in the navy, where he served as seaman, second class. Weed, who has just reached his eighteenth birthday, took a prominent part in "C'Est La Guerre," a play produced by Ell F. Dorsey post of Lawrence.

THE SETTLE

By MILDRED WHITE.

Cynthia paused before the doorway of the old house and looked up at its desolate windows. She had known the time when these windows were trim with white curtains, the shining glass reflecting firelight within. As workmen came past, removing old mahogany furniture, a whim seized her to go in through the open door and inspect the straggling rooms, with their unexpected corners.

Soggy fall leaves, which had lately been luxuriant and green, carpeted the veranda floor; Cynthia thought, as she stepped inside, that the leaves were an emblem of that life which had, until the last, made the rambling dwelling a place of comfort. The springtime of the woman's life had been green and generous with promise; now, even as the leaves, it lay broken and wasted.

The stairs echoed to her tread as she went on to the long hall above. From this hall rooms branched out perplexingly and she hesitated selecting her way. Here, a white marble mantel beckoned from its inviting nook near the green latticed bow-window; there, an outer balcony promised a view of the tangled garden beneath. But Cynthia went down three steps, to a second hallway, on to a twisting turn, resting at length on a wooden settle at the end. The place was delightfully surprising. She thought how easily one might keep house for one's self in one or two of the great spreading rooms. Cynthia loved to keep house. Now, she was boarding.

Presently, as she sat, she began to dream of the old house, peopled with forms of her fancy. Some way, always in the center of these happy dream people she herself moved, dispensing hospitality. The fire beneath the marble mantel of the living room glowed cheerily. Late crysanthemums were heaped upon it. Then, with a tremulous laugh into the shadows of the hall, Cynthia came back from her dreaming to a realization of her own small room at the city boarding house.

Following the sound of her broken laughter came quickly another step. Some one else had paused, perplexed at that last twisting way, undecided how to continue. The unexpected sight of her apparently decided the man, for he advanced, hat in hand, toward the settle.

"Pardon the intrusion," he began. "I thought the house vacant."

"So it is," Cynthia told him. "I strayed in, following an impulse."

"Interesting old place," the man said pleasantly; "don't let me interrupt your inspection."

"I am not exactly inspecting," she said.

Looking into his kind, shrewd eyes, Cynthia was moved by a second impulse—a need of fellow sympathy, perhaps, for the hardness of the world. She herself could hardly have explained the impulse.

"I came," she added abruptly, "to think things over. To put myself, as it were, in place of the woman who has been dispossessed of the home of her lifetime. To wonder just what I should do in her place."

"Dispossessed?" asked the man. Uninvited, he seated himself on the settle.

Cynthia nodded.

"She carried the mortgage as long as she could, and then it was foreclosed. There had been an invalid father for years, you see, her youth was—tied. But she made little money go a very long way; she was planning to make the old house pay for itself, when—" Cynthia's tender face hardened—"a brute of a man foreclosed the mortgage. He'd been waiting his chance for years, wanted to build a big apartment on the land. So the poor woman had to get out. I"—she brushed the tears from her eyes—"it's a tragedy to me," Cynthia explained. "You see, I knew her well."

The man drew a notebook from his pocket and held it up to the light.

"Ruth Vail was the former owner of the property, I believe," he said.

"You knew this man who foreclosed?"

"I saw him," Cynthia replied, "just once. A red-faced bully who made no allowance for woman's helplessness in his dismissal." Her indignation ended in a sudden smile.

"I hoped," said Cynthia, "that I might meet that man here today to give him an illuminating glimpse of his own character. Gain and greed have killed all humanity in him."

The stranger rose from the settle and stood looking down upon her.

"You may be right," he said, thoughtfully. "Sometimes that is so; but this red-faced bully of whom you speak was but the owner's agent fulfilling what he thought to be his duty. The despicable creature to whom you refer is—myself. I held that mortgage; that I was not informed of this particular instance of foreclosure does not excuse me. My man is ordered to take always what is mine. Now that you have relieved my blindness will you take upon yourself the pleasure of going to your friend and telling her from me that she is to be reinstated here, with promise of being undisturbed, until she has the advantage of a good start?"

Cynthia arose.

"You can't mean—" she began shakily. She paused.

"I—am Ruth Cynthia Vail," she told him.

The man smiled enigmatically.

"You looked very much at home upon that settle," he said.

Woman Voter Studying Local Municipal Needs

Like charity, political responsibility begins at home. Voting for a president was an exciting first expression for the great body of newly enfranchised women. But as a matter of fact, the woman voter who knows all about Washington and nothing about her own City Hall is not the best citizen. It is as though she went out to Africa to teach the heathen while her own children run the streets with holes in their stockings.

Every municipal problem touches in one way or another every home in the community. For women to fail to understand local issues is to fail in duty as home managers no less than as citizens.

To urge the direction of their activities to these issues is not to circumscribe women's political field. Local issues have never demanded such sober thinking and such sound judgment.

Take the matter of public utilities alone, or, to be still more concrete, the gas industry. Forty-six hundred American towns, big and little, use this commodity. It is an essential in eight million homes. Yet today it is up against a life and death struggle for existence.

Enormously increased costs of the elements that go into the manufacture of coal, oil and labor, have affected upon it. On the other side it is up against a stone wall of regulated prices, fixed years ago, which have not the slightest relationship to the present cost of production. Under continued enforcement, enforced for by short-sighted politicians pleasing on public thoughtlessness, will have the effect of literally shutting off the gas.

The duty of the women citizen in such a situation is clear. She must open her mind to all aspects of the problem. She must visualize the gas man's coal bill as her own. She must discuss ordinances proposed and entertain her own views publicly, in the interest of the community's welfare and prosperity of her community and of her home.

If women with their fresh outlook and their new civic conscience, a community question in the gas supply from the economic and political morass which threatens to engulf it, they will have accomplished for their own homes something comparable to what Elias Howe did for the sewing machine and for many
